

What is Accountable Aging Care Management?

Accountable Aging Care Management (AACM) is a full-service, professional consulting and care management company specializing in helping families navigate the complex maze of care options. Our firm, founded in 2002, provides peace of mind for family members while supporting the quality of life for their aging and/or disabled loved ones.

Our team has experts in many areas including home care, rehabilitation, nursing, faith counseling, financial oversight, social work, government benefits and programs, gerontology and education.

Our combined professional experience and personal backgrounds help us provide competent, compassionate solutions to all eldercare and disability issues.

How can AACM help Financial Services professionals?

As our society enjoys increased longevity, more and more families are finding themselves navigating the complicated network of eldercare options. Many adult children are challenged by balancing their own lives, logistical issues, career burdens, and financial responsibilities while ensuring their loved one receives the attention deserved. Never before has it been more important to find professionals who understand the needs of this aging population.

The foundation of trust established with your clients will prompt them to seek your direction in these challenges.

AACM can be an expert you lean on to provide your clients with eldercare advice. In your quest to help senior clients reach their financial goals, a Care Manager can bring value to your practice by coordinating care to help minimize unnecessary financial expenditures. Financial pitfalls can be avoided by helping them make smart choices based on their unique circumstances and family dynamics.

Expand the depth and breadth of the information you provide by partnering with us. Your clients will appreciate your association with an objective, third party to help evaluate and discern the myriad of elder care information available. AACM can provide a wealth of information outside of your knowledge base, providing even more value to your clients.

When the decisions are difficult, the problems overwhelming, and the solutions hard to find, our clients can turn to experts they trust — professionals who can see the whole picture. It's during these challenging times of transition that our companies, working together, can make a profound impact in the lives of our clients.
